The Population Health Certificate is intended for:

- Those who work in public health, but who have never had any formal public health training;
- Those interested in a career in public health and expecting to use these credits towards a MPH degree; and
- Those with or pursuing advanced degrees in related areas (such as medicine, biomedical sciences, nursing, and psychology) who wish to enhance their professional knowledge of core public health concepts.

Program Design

The schedule for completing the Population Health Certificate is flexible. You can complete the program in only two semesters, if desired, or you can plan a schedule for completing the five courses over a two-year period (the maximum timeframe.) The evening schedule makes it convenient for you to continue working or gain experience while earning your Population Health Certificate.

Cost

Tuition is governed by Rutgers University and is subject to change annually. Please visit sph.rutgers.edu/admissions to confirm current tuition rates and fees.

For Gainful Employment information, please visit http://sph.rutgers.edu/academics/certificate_programs.

Graduates of CEPH-accredited schools and programs of public health may transfer up to six (6) credits towards a certificate program if earned within the past seven years with a grade of B or better and are deemed appropriate by the respective Certificate Program Coordinator.