

CONFLICT OF INTEREST IN DISSERTATION RESEARCH

Doctoral students must address the issue of potential conflicts of interest regarding data, support for dissertation research, and the composition of the dissertation committee. In addition, students must obtain assurances from the sources of data regarding his/her ability to publish results and have access to the data after the dissertation study has been completed. A student must submit this Conflict of Interest in Dissertation Research form when he/she has:

- Passed the qualifying examination;
- Decided upon a dissertation topic, with the approval of his/her faculty advisor;
- Proposed the internal and external members of his/her dissertation committee;
- Informed the department chair regarding the dissertation topic and dissertation committee members; and
- Before a dissertation proposal defense date is scheduled.

The student and dissertation committee chair have the responsibility to provide the Doctoral Committee with information on potential conflicts of interest. To do so, the student must complete and submit this form to the Associate Dean for Academic and Faculty Affairs, who will work with the Associate Dean for Research, to determine whether there is a potential conflict of interest that must be addressed by the doctoral student. The Rutgers University policy on conflict of interest may be found at orra.rutgers.edu/conflict-interest.

I wish to submit information regarding potential conflicts of interest regarding my dissertation research.
