

GLOBAL PUBLIC HEALTH CERTIFICATE

Provides Specialized Training in Global Public Health

ABOUT

The 15-Credit Global Public Health Certificate can help you advance your knowledge and skills in the particularities and complexities of global public health. Courses explore global health and national and international health systems and policies, global health conditions and their relationship to gender, ethnicity, socioeconomic factors, environmental risks, climate, geography and catastrophic events, including violence.

The Global Public Health Certificate is intended for:

- Clinicians
- State and local health department employees
- International agency, disaster, or immigrant relief workers
- Non-governmental organization (NGO) workers
- Those working in the pharmaceutical industry
- Those interested in learning about global public health

PROGRAM DESIGN

You can complete the Global Public Health Certificate in two to three semesters, or you can plan a schedule for completing the courses over a two-year period (maximum timeframe). The late afternoon/evening schedule makes it convenient to continue working or gain experience while earning your Global Public Health Certificate.

Depending on the degree program and concentration, certificate courses may also be applied toward a degree at the Rutgers School of Public Health. Certificate holders must apply and be admitted to the degree program.

CURRICULUM REQUIREMENTS (15 credits) Courses are available in-person, remote and/or online, varying by semester and course.
